There was no respect even for combat-wounded in the various hospitals in the city, where they were hunted down as a prey is pursued by a vulture. In the Centro Gallego they broke into the operating room at the very instant when two of our critically wounded were receiving blood transfusions. They yanked them off the tables and, as the wounded could not remain upright, they dragged them down to the basement where they arrived as corpses.

They could not do the same in the Spanish Colony, where Gustavo Arcos and José Ponce were patients, because they were prevented by Dr. Posada who bravely told them they could enter only over his dead body.

Air and camphor were injected into the veins of Pedro Miret, Abelardo Crespo and Fidel Labrador, in an attempt to kill them, in the Military Hospital. They owe their lives to Captain Tamayo, an army doctor, and a true soldier of honor who, with pistol in hand, wrenched them out of their merciless captors' grasp and transferred them to the City Hospital. These five young men were the only ones of our wounded to survive.

In the early morning hours groups of our men were removed from the garrison. They were taken in automobiles to Siboney, La Maya, Songo and elsewhere. Then they were led out—tied, gagged and already disfigured by torture—and were murdered in these out-of-the-way places. They are recorded as having perished in combat against the army. After several days of this procedure, few of the captured prisoners survived.

Many were compelled to dig their own graves. One of our men, while he performed this operation, wheeled around and marked the face of one of his assassins with his pick. Others of our men were buried alive, their hands tied behind their backs.

Many solitary spots have become the graveyards of the brave. On the army target range alone, five of our men lie buried. Someday these men will be disinterred. Then they will be carried on the shoulders of the people to a monument which, alongside the tomb of Martí, their liberated land will surely erect to honor the memory of the Martyrs of the Centenary.

XXVII

The last youth assassinated in the region of Santiago de Cuba was Mario Martí. With our colleague Ciro Redondo, he was captured in a cave at Siboney on the morning of Thursday the 30th. As these two men, arms upraised, were led down the road, the soldiers shot Mario Martí in the back and after he had fallen to the ground, riddled him with bullets. Redondo was taken to the camp. When Major Pérez Chaumont saw him, he exclaimed: "And this one—why have you brought him to me?" The court was able to hear the narration of this incident from the lips of the young man who had survived thanks to what Pérez Chaumont called "the stupidity of the soldiers."

The order was the same throughout the whole province. Ten days after July 26th a newspaper of this city printed the news that two youths had been found hanged on the road from Manzanillo to Bayamo. Later they were identified as the bodies of Hugo Camejo and Pedro Vélez. Another extraordinary incident had taken place there. The victims had been three, removed from Manzanillo barracks at two o'clock in the morning. At a certain spot on the highway, they were taken out, beaten till they were unconscious, and strangled to death with a rope. But, after they had been given up for dead, one of them—Andres García—regained consciousness and took refuge in the house of a farmer. Thanks to this, the Court could learn the details of this crime, too. Of all our men taken prisoner in the Bayamo area, this boy was the only survivor.

Near the Cauto River, in a spot known as Barrancas, at the bottom of a well, lie the bodies of Raúl de Aguiar, Armando del Valle and Andrés Valdés. They were murdered at midnight on the Alto Cedro-Palma Soriano road by Sergeant Montes de Oca, head of the barracks at Miranda, Corporal Maceo, and the Lieutenant in charge of Alto Cedro, where the three murdered men were captured.

XXVIII

In the annals of evil, distinction is due to Sergeant Eulalio González, known as "the tiger" of Camp Moncada. This man felt no qualms even in bragging about his unspeakable deeds. It was he who with his own hands murdered our comrade Abel Santamaría. But, still he was not satisfied. One day as he was returning from the prison of Puerto Boniato, where he raises pedigreed fighting cocks in the backyard, he boarded a bus on which Abel's mother was travelling. When this monster realized who she was, he began referring to his grisly deeds and in a loud voice—so that the mother, dressed in mourning, could hear him—he said, “Yés, I have extracted many eyes and expect to continue extracting them.” In that mother's sobs of grief at the crude and cowardly insolence of the very murderer of her son, we can find expressed beyond power of any words the unprecedented moral opprobrium our nation is suffering. When these selfsame mothers went to Camp Moncada to ask about their sons, they were given an answer unheard-of in its callousness: “Certainly, Madame, you may go see him—at Hotel Santa Efigenia*, where we have put him up for you.” Either Cuba is not Cuba, or the men responsible for these acts will have to meet a dire day of reckoning. Heartless men, they coarsely insulted the Cuban people who uncovered their heads in reverence as the corpses of their young rebels were carried by.

So many were the victims that the government has not yet dared to make public the complete casualty lists. They know that their figures are all out of proportion. They do have the names of all the victims, because prior to murdering every prisoner they recorded his vital statistics. The whole long process of identification through the National Cabinet* was pure pantomime and there are families who still await word of the fate of their sons. Now that almost three months have elapsed, why is the question still open?

I wish to confirm that the victims' pockets were probed for the very last penny and that all their personal effects, rings and watches were stripped from their bodies and are brazenly worn today by their assassins.

XXIX

A great part of what I have just related, you already know, Honorable Magistrates, from the testimony of many of my colleagues. But please note that many key witnesses have been barred from this trial, although they were permitted to attend the other sessions of the trial. For example, I point out that the nurses of the City Hospital are absent although they work in the same building where this hearing is taking place. They were prevented from appearing so that, under my questioning, they could not testify to the fact that, besides Dr. Mario Munoz, twenty other men were captured alive here. The regime fears that from the questioning of these witnesses, some extremely dangerous testimony would get into the official trial records.

But Major Perez Chaumont did appear here and he could not elude my questioning. What we learned from this man—a hero who fought only against unarmed and handcuffed men—gives us an idea of what could have been learned at the Courthouse if I had not been isolated from the proceedings. I asked him how many of our men had died in his celebrated skirmishes at Siboney. He hesitated. I insisted and he finally said twenty-one. Since I knew no such skirmishes had ever taken place, I asked him how many of our men had been wounded. He answered: none; all of them had been killed. It was then that I asked him, in astonishment, if the soldiers were using nuclear weapons. Of course, where men are shot point blank, there are no wounded.

I asked him afterwards how many casualties the Army had sustained. He replied that two of his men had been wounded. I asked him finally if neither of those two had died and he said no. I waited. Later, all of the wounded Army soldiers filed by and it was discovered that none of them had been wounded at Siboney. This same Major Perez Chaumont who hardly flinched at having assassinated twenty defenseless young men has built in Ciudadamar Beach a palatial home worth more than $100,000—his savings after only a few months under Batista's new rule. And if a major has saved this much, what must the generals have saved!

XXX

Honorable Magistrates: Where are our boys who were captured during the 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th of July? There are known to be over sixty captured men from the area of Santiago de Cuba. Only three of them and the two girls have appeared. The rest of the accused were seized later. Where are our wounded? Only five of them are alive, the rest were murdered. The figures are irrefutable.

On the other hand, twenty soldiers who were our prisoners have been present here and according to their own words received not even an offensive word from us. Before you, also, appeared thirty soldiers who were wounded, many in the street fighting, and none was killed off by us. If the Army losses were nineteen dead and thirty wounded, how is it possible that we should have had eighty dead and five wounded? Who ever witnessed a battle with 21 dead and no wounded, like these extraordinary battles described by Perez Chaumont?

Here we have the casualty lists of the bitter fighting of the invasion troops of the war of 1895, both where the Cuban Army was victorious and where the Cuban Army was defeated. The Battle of Los Indios at Las Villas: twelve wounded, none dead; Battle of Mal Tiempo: four dead, 23 wounded; Battle of Calimete: sixteen dead, 64 wounded; Battle of La Palma: 39 dead, 88 wounded; Battle of Cacarajicara: five dead, thirteen wounded; Battle of Descanso: four dead, 45 wounded; Battle of San Gabriel del Lombillo: two dead, eighteen wounded. In all of these the number of wounded is two times, three times and up to ten times greater than the number of dead, although in those days, no techniques of modern medicine existed to reduce the percentage of deaths. How then can we explain the fabulous proportion of sixteen deaths per wounded man, if not by the government's slaughter of the wounded in the very hospitals, just as they later assassinated the other helpless prisoners they had taken. The numbers speak out beyond rebuttal.

"It is a shame and a dishonor for the Army to have lost in combat three times as many men as the insurgents lost; we must kill ten prisoners for each dead soldier." This is the concept of honor held by the petty corporals made generals on the 10th of March. This is the code of honor they wish to impose on the National Army. False, pretended and superficial honor based on lies, hypocrisy and crime. [They know they need a mask to hide behind and they try to make] of blood a mask of honor. Who told them men lose their honor when they die fighting? Who told them the honor of an army consists of murdering the wounded and the prisoners of war?

XXXI

In times of war armies that murder prisoners have always earned the contempt and abomination of the entire world. Such cowardice has no justification even in a case when national territory is invaded by foreign forces. In the words of a South American liberator: "Not even the strictest military obedience can convert a soldier's sword into a ruthless blade." The honorable soldier does not kill the helpless prisoner after the fight, but rather, respects him. He does not finish off a wounded man, but rather, helps him. He stands in the way of crime and if he cannot prevent it, he imitates that Spanish captain who, upon hearing the report of guns turned on students, indignantly broke his sword in two and refused to continue serving in that army.

The soldiers who murdered prisoners were not worthy of the soldiers who died. I saw many soldiers fight with courage, for example, those in the patrols that fired their machine guns against us in almost body to body combat or that sergeant who, defying death, grabbed the alarm to mobilize the barracks. Some of them live, I am happy for them; others are dead. They believed they were doing their duty and in my sight, this makes them worthy of admiration and respect. I deplore only the fact that valiant men should fall for an evil cause. When Cuba is freed, we should respect, shelter and aid the wives and sons of the courageous soldiers who perished fighting against us. They are not to be blamed for the miseries of Cuba. They are just so many more victims of this nefarious situation.

But the honor gained by the soldiers who died in battle was lost by generals who ordered prisoners to be killed after their surrender. Men who became generals overnight without ever firing a shot, men who bought their stars with high treason to their country, men who ordered the execution of prisoners taken in battles in which they did not participate; these are the generals of the 10th of March—generals who would have been unfit to drive the mules that carried equipment for the army of Antonio Maceo.*

The Army suffered three times as many casualties as we did. That was because our men were superbly trained, as the army men themselves testified; and because we had prepared adequate tactical measures, as the Army men themselves admitted. The Army failed to perform brilliantly; despite the millions spent for espionage by the Military Intelligence Service, they were taken totally by surprise; and their hand-grenades failed to explode because they were obsolete. All this, the Army owes to generals like Martin Diaz Tamayo and colonels like Ugalde Carrillo and Alberto del Rio Chaviano.

We were not 17 traitors infiltrated in the Army ranks, as was the case on the 10th of March. Rather we were 165 men who had crossed the length and breadth of the island to look death boldly in the face. If the Army leaders had had a notion of real military honor they would have resigned their commands instead of trying to wash away their shame and incompetence in the blood of prisoners.

Antonio Maceo. see p. 32.

XXXII

To kill prisoners and then state that they died in combat—that is the military capacity of the generals of the 10th of March. That was the way the worst butchers of Valeriano Weyler* behaved in the worst days of our War of Independence.

The Chronicles of War narrate the following incident:

"On the 23rd of February, officer Baldomero Acosta entered Punta Brava with some cavalry at the same time that there approached, from the opposite road, a squad of Pizarro's regiment led by a sergeant known around there as Barriguilla (Pot Belly). The insurgents exchanged a few salvos with Pizarro's men, then withdrew by the trail that leads from Punta Brava to the village of Guatao. Followed by another battalion of volunteers from Marianao who were led by Captain Calvo, Pizarro's squad marched on Guatao. As soon as their first forces entered the village they commenced their massacre—killing twelve throughout the peaceful neighborhood and taking the rest prisoners. Not yet satisfied with their outrages, in the outskirts of Guatao they carried out another barbaric execution killing one of the prisoners and horribly wounding the rest. The Marquis of Cervera, a complacent, pomp and circumstance soldier, informed Weyler of the pyrrhic victory of the Spanish soldiers; but Major Zugasti, a man of principle, denounced the incident to the government and officially called the murders perpetrated by the iniquitous Captain Calvo and Sergeant Barriguilla, an assassination of peaceful citizens."

"Weyler's intervention in this horrible incident and his delight upon learning the details of the massacre can be palpably deduced from the official dispatch that he sent to the Ministry of War concerning his cruelties. 'A small regiment organized by a Major from Marianao with forces from the garrison, fought, destroying the troops of Villanueva and Baldomero Acosta near Punta Brava, killing twenty of their men, who were handed over to the Mayor of Guatao for burial, and taking fifteen prisoners, one of them wounded, and assuming many wounded among those who escaped. One of our men suffered critical wounds, many suffered light bruises and wounds. Weyler.'"

The only difference between Weyler's lines and those of Colonel Chaviano, detailing the victories of Major Perez Chaumont, is that Weyler announces twenty dead and Chaumont 21; Weyler mentions one wounded soldier in his ranks, Chaviano mentions two; Weyler speaks of one wounded man and fifteen prisoners in the enemy ranks, Chaviano records neither wounded men nor prisoners.

Just as I admire the courage of the soldiers who died bravely I also admire the officers who bore themselves with dignity and did not redden their hands with this blood. Many of the survivors owe their lives to the commendable conduct of officers like Lieutenant Sarria, Lieutenant Camps, Captain Tamayo and others, who were true gentlemen in their treatment of the prisoners. If men like these had not partially saved the name of the Armed Forces, today it would be more honorable to wear a dishrag than to wear an Army uniform.

XXXIII

For my dead friends, I claim no vengeance. Since their lives were priceless, the murderers could not pay for them with their own lives. It is not by blood that we can redeem the lives of those who died for their country. The happiness of their people is the only tribute worthy of them.

My comrades, furthermore, are neither dead nor forgotten; they live today, more than ever, and their murderers will view with dismay the immortality of the victorious spirit of their ideas. Let the Apóstol* speak for me:

"There is a limit to the tears we can shed at the tombs of the dead. Instead of crying over their bodies, we should go there to contemplate their infinite love for their country and its glory—a love that never falters, loses hope nor grows faint. For the graves of the martyrs are the most beautiful altars of our day.

When one dies
In the arms of a grateful fatherland
Death ends, prison walls break—
Finally, with death, life begins."

Apóstol. Jose Martí. See p. 15.

XXXIV

Up to this point I have confined myself almost exclusively to relating events. Since I am well aware that I am before a court convened to judge me, I will now demonstrate that all legal right was on our side alone, and that the verdict imposed on my comrades—the verdict now being sought against me—has no justification by reason, nor before society and true justice.

I wish to be duly respectful to the Honorable Magistrates and I am grateful that you find in the frankness of my plea no animosity towards you. My argument is meant merely to demonstrate what a false and erroneous position the Judicial System has adopted in the present situation.

To a certain extent, each court is nothing more than a cog in the wheel of this system and therefore, must move along the course determined by the vehicle—although, by no means, does this justify any individual to act against his principles. I know very well that the oligarchy are most to be blamed. The oligarchy, without dignified protest, abjectly yielded to the dictates of the usurper, and betrayed their country by renouncing the autonomy of the Judicial System.

Men who constitute noble exceptions have attempted to mend the system's mangled honor with their individual decisions. But the gestures of this minority have been of little consequence, drowned as they were by the obsequious and fawning majority. Although I am aware of this, it will not stop me, nevertheless, from speaking the truth that supports my cause.

My appearance before this court may be a pure farce to give the semblance of legality to arbitrary decisions, but I am determined to tear down with a firm hand the infamous veil that hides so much shamelessness. It is curious: the very men who have brought me here to be judged and condemned have never heeded a single decision of this court.

Since this trial may, as you have said, be the most important to have taken place since we achieved national sovereignty, what I say here will perhaps be lost in the silence which the dictatorship has tried to impose on me, but posterity will often turn its eyes to what you do here.

Remember that today you are judging an accused man, but that you yourselves will be judged not once, but many times—as often as these days are submitted to criticism in the future. What I say here will be repeated many times, not because it comes from my lips, but because the problem of justice is eternal and the people have a deep sense of justice, above and beyond the hairsplitting of jurisprudence. The people wield simple but implacable logic, in conflict with all that is absurd and contradictory.

Furthermore, if there is in the world a people that utterly abhors favoritism and inequality, it is the Cuban people. To them justice is symbolized by a maiden with a scale and a sword in her hands. Should she cower before one group and furiously wield that sword against another group, then, to the people of Cuba, the maiden of justice will seem nothing more than a prostitute brandishing a dagger. My logic is the simple logic of the people.

XXXV

Let me tell you a story.

Once upon a time there was a Republic. It had its constitution, its laws, its civil rights, a president, a Congress, and law courts. Everyone could assemble, associate, speak and write with complete freedom.

The people were not satisfied with the government officials at that time, but [the people] had the power to elect new officials and only a few days remained before they were going to do so!

There existed a public opinion both respected and heeded and all problems of common interest were freely discussed. There were political parties, radio and television debates and forums, and public meetings. The whole nation throbbed with enthusiasm. This country had suffered greatly and although it was unhappy, it longed to be happy and had a right to be happy. It had been deceived many times and it looked upon the past with real horror. This country believed—blindly—that such a past could not return; the people were proud of their love of liberty and they carried their heads high in the conviction that liberty would be respected as a sacred right; they felt confident that no one would dare commit the crime of violating their democratic institutions. They desired a change for the better, aspired toward progress; and they saw all this at hand. All their hope was in the future.

My poor country! One morning the citizens awakened dismayed; under the cover of night, while the people slept, the ghosts of the past had conspired and now had seized the citizen body by the limbs . . . by its very throat. That grip, those claws were familiar: those jaws, those death dealing scythes, those boots. No; it was no nightmare; it was a sad and terrible reality: A man named Fulgencio Batista had just committed the appalling crime that no one had expected.

XXXVI

Then a humble citizen of this country, a citizen who longed to believe in the laws of the Republic and in the integrity of its judges, whom he had seen vent their fury against the underprivileged—opened a code of Social Defense to see what punishment society prescribed for the author of such a coup and he discovered the following:—

“Whosoever shall perpetrate any deed destined through violent means directly to change in whole or in part the Constitution of the State or the form of established government shall incur a sentence of six to ten years in jail.”

“A sentence of three to ten years in jail will be decreed to the author of any act directed to promote an armed uprising against the Constitutional powers of the State. The sentence increases from five to twenty years if the insurrection is carried out.”

“Whosoever shall perpetrate an act with the specific purpose of preventing, in whole or in part, even temporarily, the Senate, the Chamber of Representatives, the President or the Supreme Court from exercising their constitutional functions will incur a sentence from six to ten years in jail. Whosoever shall attempt to impede or tamper with the normal course of general elections, will incur a sentence from four to eight years in jail.”

“Whosoever shall introduce, publish, distribute or attempt to carry out in Cuba any dispatch, order or decree tending to provoke the non-observance of the law will incur a sentence from two to six years in jail.”

“Whosoever shall assume command of troops, posts, fortresses, military camps, towns, warships or aircraft, without the authority to do so, or without express Government orders, will incur a sentence from five to ten years in jail.”

A similar sentence will be passed upon anyone who usurps the exercise of a function held by the Constitution as properly belonging to the powers of State.

With Code in one hand and deposition in the other, that citizen went in our capital to the old building which housed the competent Court which was under obligation to bring cause against and punish those responsible for this deed. He presented a writ denouncing the crimes and asking that Fulgencio Batista and his seventeen accomplices be sentenced to one hundred eight years in jail as decreed by the Code of Social Defense [for their crime], aggravated by second offense treachery and acting under cover of night.

Days and months passed by. What a disappointment! The accused remained unmolested; he strode up and down the country like a great lord and was called honorable sire and general: he removed and replaced judges at will. The very day that the court opened, the criminal occupied the seat of honor in the midst of our august and venerable patriarchs of justice.

XXXVII

Once more the days and the months rolled by, the people wearied of mockery and abuses. There is a limit to tolerance! The struggle began against this man who was disregarding the law, who had usurped power by the use of violence against the will of the people, who was guilty of aggression against the established order, and who tortured, murdered, imprisoned and prosecuted those who had taken up the fight to defend the law and to restore liberty to the people.

Honorable Magistrates, I am that humble citizen who one day came in vain to punish the power hungry men who had violated the law and had torn our institutions to shreds. Now that it is I who am accused, for attempting to overthrow this illegal regime and to restore the legitimate constitution, I am held for 76 days and am denied the right to speak to anyone, even to my son: guarded by two heavy machine guns, I am led through the city. I am transferred to this hospital to be tried secretly with the greatest severity; and the prosecutor with the Code in his hand, solemnly demands that I be sentenced to 26 years in prison.

You will answer that on the former occasion the courts failed to act because force prevented them from doing so. Well then—confess: this time force will oblige you to condemn me. The first time you were unable to punish the guilty: now you will be compelled to punish the innocent. The maiden of justice twice raped by force!

XXXVIII

And such garrulity to justify the unjustifiable, to explain the inexplicable and to reconcile the irreconcilable!

The regime has reached the point of asserting that might-makes-right is the supreme law of the land. In other words that using tanks and soldiers to take over the Presidential palace, the national treasury, and the other government buildings and aiming guns at the heart of the people entitles them to govern the people! The same argument the Nazis were able to use when they occupied the nations of Europe and installed puppet governments in them.

I heartily agree that revolution can be the source of legal right: but the nocturnal armed assault of the tenth of March could never be classified as a revolution. In everyday language, as José Ingenieros said, it is common to give the name of revolution to small disorders promoted by a group of dissatisfied persons in order to grab, from those in power, both the political plums and the economic advantages. The usual result is no more than a change of hands in the divvying up of jobs and benefits. This is not the criterion of a philosopher of history, as it cannot be that of a cultured man.

Leaving aside the question of profound changes in the social system, not even on the surface of the public quagmire were we able to discern the slightest motion that could lessen the rampant putrefaction. The previous regime was guilty of petty politics, theft, pillage, and disrespect for human life; but the present regime increased political skullduggery five-fold, pillage ten-fold, and has increased a hundred-fold the lack of respect for human life. It was known that Barriguilla had plundered and murdered, that he was a millionaire, that he owned in Havana a good many apartment houses, countless stocks in foreign companies, fabulous accounts in American banks, that he distributed capital gains to the tune of eighteen million dollars, that he was a frequent guest in the most lavishly expensive hotels for tycoons. No one would ever accept that Barriguilla was a revolutionist. Barriguilla was that sargeant of Weyler who dispatched twelve Cubans in El Guatao. Batista's men murdered seventy in Santiago de Cuba. De te fabula narratur.

XXXIX

Four political parties governed the country prior to the tenth of March: the Auténtico, Liberal, Democratic and Republican parties. Two days after the coup the Republican party changed sides. A year had not yet passed by before the Liberal and Democratic parties were again in power: Batista did not restore the Constitution, did not restore civil liberties, did not restore Congress, did not restore universal suffrage, did not restore in the end any of the uprooted democratic institutions. But he did restore Verdeja, Guas Inclán, Salvito García Ramos, Anaya Murillo and the top hierarchy of the traditionally government parties, the most corrupt rapacious, reactionary and antediluvian elements of Cuban politics. This was [like] the "revolution" of Barriguilla.

Lacking the most fundamental revolutionary orientation Batista's regime represents in all respects a regression of 20 years for Cuba. Batista's return has exacted a high price from all of us—but primarily from the lower classes which are suffering hunger and misery. Meanwhile the dictatorship has laid waste the nation with agitation, ineptitude and tottering economies and now engages in the most loathsome forms of ruthless politics, concocting formula after formula to perpetuate itself in power even if over a stack of corpses and a sea of blood.

Batista's regime has not set in motion a single nationwide program of betterment for the people. Batista delivered himself into the hands of the [selfish]. Little else could be expected from a man of his mentality—utterly devoid, as he is, both of ideals and of principles and utterly lacking, as he does, the faith, confidence, or backing of the masses. His regime brought merely a switch of hands and a re-distribution of loot among a new collection of friends, relatives, accomplices and parasitical dregs that constitute the political retinue of a Dictator. What great opprobrium the people have been forced to endure so that a small clan of egotists altogether indifferent to the needs of their homeland may find in public life an easy and indulgent modus vivendi.

Colonels of castor oil. refers to torture method Batista's first regime introduced into Cuba. Prisoners were given massive doses of castor oil, to subject them to intense intestinal pain and to overwhelming sensations of helplessness, as well as to filth.

March, Cubans began once more to witness such acts of veritable vandalism as they had considered banished forever from Cuba. There was an unprecedented attack on a cultural institution. The University of the Air was stormed by the thugs of the SIM, together with the young hoodlums of PAU.* There was also the case of Mario Kuchilan, dragged away from his home in the middle of the night and bestially tortured till he was nearly unconscious and the murder of student Rubén Batista* and the criminal volleys fired at a peaceful student demonstration next to the same wall where the Spanish volunteers executed the students of 1871. And, many many cases such as that of Dr. García Bárcenas, when right in the courtrooms men have coughed up blood because of the barbaric tortures visited upon them by the repressive security forces. I will not enumerate the hundreds of cases where groups of citizens have been brutally clubbed —men, women, children and the aged.

All of this was being done even before the 26th of July. Since then, as everybody knows, Cardinal Arteaga* himself was not spared such treatment. According to the official story, he was the victim of a "band of thieves". For once the regime told the truth. What else are they?

XXXXI

Cuba has just witnessed with horror the case of the journalist who was kidnapped and subjected to torture by fire for twenty days. Each case brought forth evidence of unheard of effrontery, of immense hypocrisy: the cowardice of shirking responsibility and invariably blaming the enemies of the regime. Governmental tactics fit to be envied by the worst gangster mobs. Even the Nazi criminals were never so cowardly. Hitler assumed responsibility for the massacres of June 30th* 1934, stating that for 24 hours he had been the German Supreme Court: the henchmen of this dictatorship, which defies all comparison with others, due to its baseness, maliciousness and cowardice: kidnap, torture and murder and then loathsomely put the blame on the adversaries of the regime. The typical tactics of Sgt. Barriguilla!

Not once in all the cases I have mentioned, Honorable Magistrates have the agents accountable for them been brought forth to be tried by courts. How is this? Is this not the regime of public order peace and respect for human life?

XXXXII

I have recited all this in order now to ask you: Did Batista's present regime — his "revolution" of last year — ever have any of the rightful attributes of a real revolution? Is it or is it not constitutional to struggle against his regime? And must there not be a high degree of corruption in the courts of law when these courts imprison the citizens who try to rid their country of so much infamy?

Cuba is suffering a cruel and base despotism. You are well aware that resistance to despots is legitimate. This is a universally recognized principle and our Constitution of 1940* expressly makes it a sacred right, in the second paragraph of Article 40: "It is legitimate to use adequate resistance to protect previously granted individual rights."

And even if this prerogative had not been provided by the Supreme Law of the Land, it is a consideration without which one cannot conceive the existence of democratic societies. Professor Infiesta,* in his book on Constitutional Law, differentiates between the political and the judicial constitutions, and states: "Sometimes the Judicial Constitution includes constitutional principles which, even without being so classified, would be equally binding just on the basis of the people's consent, for example, the principle of majority rule in our democracies. The right of insurrection in the face of tyranny is one of such principles, and, whether or not it be included in the Judicial Constitution, it is always binding within a democratic society. The presentation of such a case to a high court is one of the most interesting problems of Civil law."

Duguitt* has said in his Treaty on Constitutional Law: "If an insurrection fails, no court will dare to rule that this unsuccessful insurrection was technically no conspiracy or transgression against the security of the state inasmuch as, the government being tyrannical, the intention to overthrow it was legitimate."

Constitution of 1940. Famous document drafted by the Asamblea Constituyente, famous for its advanced social legislation.

Duguitt. French Jurist.

But please take note. Duguitt does not state, "the court ought not to rule". He says, "no court will dare to rule". More explicitly he means that no court will dare, that no court will have enough courage to do so, under a tyranny. The issue admits no alternatives. If the court is courageous and does its duty, yes, it will dare.

XXXXIII

Recently there has been a violent controversy concerning the validity of the Constitution of 1940. The Court of Social and Constitutional Rights ruled against it in favor of the laws [that were unconstitutional under that constitution.] Nevertheless, Honorable Magistrates, I maintain that the 1940 constitution is still in power.

My statement may seem absurd and extemporaneous to you. But do not be surprised. It is I who am astonished that a court of law should have attempted to deal a vile death blow to the legitimate Constitution of the Republic. As I have done all along — strictly adhere to the facts, to truth, and to reason — I will prove what I have just affirmed.

The Court for Social and Constitutional Rights was instituted according to Article 172 of the 1940 Constitution, complemented by Organic Law Number 7 enacted on May 31, 1949. These laws, in virtue of which the Court was created, granted it, in questions of unconstitutionality, a specific and clearly defined area of legal competence: to rule in all matters of appeals claiming the unconstitutionality of all laws, legal decrees, revolutions or acts that negate, diminish, restrain or adulterate the constitutional rights and privileges or that jeopardize the operations of state agencies.

Article 194 established the following very clearly: "All judges and courts are under obligation to find solution to conflicts between the Constitution and the existing laws in accordance with the principle that the former shall always prevail above the latter."

According, therefore, to the laws that created it, the Court of Social and Constitutional Rights should always rule in favor of the Constitution. When this Court caused the statutes to prevail above the Constitution of the Republic, it completely overstepped its boundaries and its established field of competence, thereby rendering a decision which is legally null and void.

Furthermore, the decision in itself is absurd, and absurdities have no validity, neither by right nor by might — nor even from a metaphysical viewpoint. No matter how venerable a court may be, it cannot assert that circles are square, — or what amounts to the same thing, — affirm that the grotesque offspring of Batista's, the April 4th statutes, should be considered the official Constitution.

The Constitution is understood to be the basic and supreme law of the land — to define the country's political structure, regulate the functioning of government agencies and determine the boundaries of their activities. It must be sui generis, stable, enduring — and to a certain extent inflexible. The statutes [of April 4th] fulfill none of these qualifications. To begin with, they harbor a monstrous, shameless and brazen contradiction in regard to the most vital subject — the integration relation of the Republican structure and the principle of national sovereignty.

Article I says: "Cuba is a sovereign and independent state constituted as a democratic Republic . . . Article II says: "Sovereignty resides in the will of the people, and all powers derive from this source."

But then comes Batista's Article 118 which says: "The President will be nominated by the Cabinet." So it is not the people who choose the president, but rather the Cabinet chooses him. And who chooses the Cabinet?

Batista's Article 120, section 13: "The President will be authorized to nominate and reappoint the members of the Cabinet and to replace them when the occasion arises." So, after all, who nominates whom? Is this not the old classic of the chicken and the egg that no one has ever been able to solve?

XXXXIV

One day eighteen rogues got together. Their plan was to assault the Republic and loot its 350 million dollar annual budget. Treacherously and surreptitiously they succeeded in their purpose. "And what do we do next?" they wondered.

One of them said to the rest: "You name me Prime Minister and I will make you generals." As soon as this was done, he rounded up a clique of twenty men and told them: "I will make you my Cabinet and you will make me President."

In this fashion they nominated each other generals, ministers and president and then took over the treasury and government, lock, stock, and barrel.

Further, it was not simply a matter of the usurpation of sovereignty for one single time in order to name a Cabinet, a staff and a President. This man ascribed to himself, through these statutes, not only absolute control of the nation but also the power of life and death over every citizen and control over the very existence of the nation. Because of this, I maintain that the position of the Court of Social and Constitutional Rights is not only treacherous, vile, cowardly and repugnant, but also absurd.

Batista's statutes contain an article that has not received much attention but which furnishes the key to this situation and is the one from which we shall derive decisive conclusions. I refer specifically to the modifying clause included in Article 257, which reads: "This constitutional law is open to reform by the Cabinet by a two-thirds quorum vote." Here mockery reached its maximum.

Not only did they exercise sovereignty in order to impose upon the people a Constitution without the people's consent and to install a regime which concentrates all power in its own hands; but also, through Article 257, they assume the most essential attribute of sovereignty — the power to change the basic and supreme Law of the Land. And they have already changed it several times since the 10th of March. Yet, with the greatest gall, they assert in Article II that sovereignty resides in the will of the people and that the people are the source of all power.

Since these changes can be brought about by a vote of two-thirds of the Cabinet and the Cabinet is named by the president, then the right to make and break Cuba is in the hands of one man, a man who is, furthermore, the most unworthy of all the creatures ever born in this land.

Was this then accepted by the Court of Constitutional Rights? And is all that derives from it valid and legal? Very well, you shall see what was accepted:

"This constitutional law will be liable to change by a two-thirds quorum vote of the Cabinet." Such a power recognizes no limits. Under its aegis, any article, any chapter, any clause — even the whole law — can be modified. For example, Article I which I have just mentioned says that Cuba is a sovereign and independent state constituted as a democratic Republic, although today it is in fact a bloody satrapy. Article III reads: "The national boundaries include the island of Cuba, the Isle of Pines, and the neighboring islets and keys . . ." and so on.

Batista and his cabinet under the provisions of Article 257 can modify all these other articles. They can say that Cuba is no longer to be a Republic but a hereditary monarchy and he, Batista, can anoint himself king. He can dismember the national territory and sell a province to a foreign country, as Napoleon did with Louisiana. He can suspend the right to life itself, and, like Herod, order the decapitation of newborn children. All of these measures would be legal and you, my friends, would have to incarcerate all those who opposed them, just as you now intend to do with me.

XXXXV

I have put forth extreme examples to show how sad and how humiliating is our present situation. To think that all those absolute powers are in the hands of men truly capable of selling our country with all its citizens! Since the Court of Constitutional Rights has accepted Batista's unconstitutional statutes, what more are they waiting for? They may as well hang up their judicial robes.

It is a fundamental principle of Civil Law that there can be no unconstitutionality where the Executive and the Legislative powers reside in the same body. When the Cabinet makes the laws, the decrees and the rules — and at the same time has the power to change the Constitution in ten minutes' time — then why the devil do we need a Court of Constitutional Rights?

The ruling in favor of Batista's statutes is irrational, inconceivable, illogical and contrary to the republican laws that you, Honorable Magistrates, swore to uphold. When the Court of Constitutional Rights supported Batista's statutes against the Constitution, the Supreme Law of the Land was not abolished [as it seemed to be] but rather, the Court of Constitutional Rights renounced its autonomy and committed legal suicide. May it rest in peace.

XXXXVI

The right to revolt, established in Article 40 of the Constitution is still valid. Was it established to function while the Republic was enjoying normal conditions? No. This provision is, in relation to the Constitution, what a lifeboat is to a ship on high sea. The lifeboat is lowered only when, for example, the boat is torpedoed by enemies in ambush along its course. With our Constitution betrayed and the people deprived of all their prerogatives there was only one right left, one right which no power may abolish — the right to resist oppression and injustice.

If any doubt remains, there is an article of the Social Defense Code which the Honorable Prosecutor would have done well not to forget. It reads, I quote: "The appointed or elected government authorities that fail to resist sedition with all the available means will be liable to a sentence of from six to eight years."

The Judges of our nation were under obligation to resist Batista's treacherous military coup of the 10th of March. It is obvious that when no one else has observed the law and when nobody else has done his duty, then now, those who have observed the law and have done their duty should be sent to jail. [Sic!]

You will not be able to deny that the regime forced upon the nation is unworthy of Cuban tradition, unworthy of Cuba's history.

In his book, The Spirit of Laws which is the foundation of the modern division of governmental power, Montesquieu* makes a distinction between three types of government according to their basic natures: "The Republican form wherein the whole people or a portion thereof has sovereign power: the Monarchial form where only one man governs, but in accordance to fixed and well defined laws: and the despotic form where one man without regard for laws and rules acts as he pleases, regarding only his own will or whim."

Afterwards he adds: "A man whose five senses constantly tell him that he is everything and that the rest of humanity is nothing is bound to be lazy, ignorant and sensuous." As virtue is necessary to a democracy, and honor to a monarchy—fear is of the essence to a despotic regime, where virtue is not needed and honor would be dangerous."

XXXXVII

The right of rebellion against tyranny, Honorable Magistrates, has been recognized from the most ancient times to the present day by men of all creeds, ideas, and doctrines.

Montesquieu. Charles de Secondat 1689-1755. French lawyer and political philosopher.

In the theocratic monarchies of remote antiquity, in China, it was in effect a constitutional principle that when a King governed rudely and despotically he should be deposed and replaced by a virtuous prince.

The philosophers of ancient India upheld the principle of active resistance to arbitrary authority. They justified revolution and very often put their theories into practice. One of their spiritual leaders used to say that—"An opinion held by the majority is stronger than the king himself. A rope weaved of many strands is strong enough to drag a lion."

The city states of Greece and republican Rome not only admitted but defended the meting-out of violent death to tyrants.

In the Middle Ages, John of Salisbury* in his Book of the Statesman says that when a prince does not govern according to law and degenerates into a tyrant, violent overthrow is legitimate and justifiable. He recommends for tyrants the dagger rather than poison.

Saint Thomas Aquinas, in the Summa Theologica, rejects the doctrine of tyrannicide, and yet upholds the thesis that tyrants should be overthrown by the people.

Martin Luther proclaimed that when a government degenerates into a tyranny violating the laws, the subjects are released from their obligation to obey. His disciple, Philippe Melancthon, upholds the right of resistance when governments become despotic. Calvin, the most outstanding thinker of the Reformation, with regard to political ideas, postulates that people are entitled to take up arms to oppose any usurpation.

No less a man than Juan Mariana, a Spanish Jesuit during the reign of Philip II, asserts in his book, De Rege et Regis Institutione, that when a governor usurps power, or even if he were elected, when he governs in a tyrannical manner, it is licit for a private citizen to exercise tyrannicide, either directly or through subterfuge, with the least possible disturbance.

The French writer, Francois Hotman,* maintained that between the government and its subjects there is a bond or contract, and that the people may rise in rebellion against the tyranny of governments when the latter violate said agreement.

John of Salisbury. English ecclesiastic. d. 1180.

Francois Hotman. 1524-1590. Many of his writings brought changes in the study and teaching of law.

During that same historical era, a widely read booklet appeared under the title Vindiciae Contra Tyrannos and over the pseudonym, Stephanus Junius Brutus. It openly proclaimed that resistance to governments is legitimate when rulers oppress the people and that it is the duty of honorable judges to lead the struggle.

The Scottish reformers, John Knox* and John Poynt, upheld the same point of view. And, in the most important book of that movement, George Buchanan stated that if a government achieves power without taking into account the consent of the people, or if a government rules their destiny in an unjust and arbitrary fashion, then that government becomes a tyranny and can be divested of power or in a final recourse, can have its leaders executed.

John Althus, a German jurist of the early Seventeenth Century states, in his Treatise on Politics, that sovereignty, as the supreme authority of the State, is born from the voluntary concurrence of all its members; that governmental authority stems from the people and that its unjust, illegal or tyrannical function exempts them from the duty of obedience and justifies their resistance or rebellion.

Thus far, Honorable Magistrates, I have mentioned examples from antiquity, from the Middle Ages and from the beginnings of the modern age. I selected these examples from writers of all creeds.

Moreover, as you can see, the right to rebellion is at the very roots of Cuba's existence as a nation. By virtue of [a rebellion fifty years ago] you are today able to appear in the robes of Cuban magistrates. Would that those garments served the cause of justice!

XXXXVIII

It is well known that in England during the Eighteenth Century two kings, Charles I and James II, were dethroned for despotism. These acts coincided with the birth of liberal political philosophy and provided the ideological foundation for a new social class, which was then struggling to break the bonds of feudalism.

Against divine right autocracies this new philosophy upheld the principle of the social contract and of the consent of the governed, and constituted the foundation of the American Revolution of 1775 and of the French Revolution of 1789. These great events ushered in the liberation of the Spanish colonies in the New World—the final link in that chain being broken by Cuba.

The new philosophy nurtured our own political ideas and helped us evolve our Constitution from the Constitution of Guáimaro up to the Constitution of 1940. The latter was influenced by the socialist currents of our time; into it were built the principle of the social function of property and of man's inalienable right to that decorous living which large vested interests have [often] prevented him from realizing fully.

The right of insurrection against tyranny then underwent its final consecration and became a fundamental tenet of political liberty.

As far back as 1649 John Milton* wrote that political power lies in the people, who can enthrone and dethrone kings and who have the duty of overthrowing tyrants.

John Locke,* in his essay on government sustains that when the natural rights of man are violated, the people have the right and the duty of suppressing or changing the government. "The last recourse against wrongful and unauthorized force is opposition to it."

Jean Jacques Rousseau says with great eloquence in his Social Contract: "While a people sees itself forced to obey and obeys, it does well; as soon as it can shake off the yoke and shakes it off, it does better, recovering its liberty through use of the very right that had been taken away from it.

"The strongest man is never sufficiently strong to be always the master, but rather tries to convert force into right and tries to convert obedience into duty. Force is a physical power. I do not see what morality can be derived from its use. To cede to force is an act of necessity, not of will. All else is an act of prudence. In what sense can this be a duty?

"To renounce freedom is to renounce one's status as a man, to renounce one's human rights, including one's duties. There is no possible compensation for renouncing everything. Total renunciation is incompatible with the nature of man and to take away all free will is to take away all moral conduct. In short, it is vain and contradictory to stipulate on one hand an absolute authority and on the other hand an unlimited obedience.

John Milton. (1608-1674) English poet and man of letters, author of "Paradise Lost" who supported Oliver Cromwell in the struggle against the anti-democratic court of Charles I.

John Locke. English philosopher, born 1632. His writings on the rights of individuals to life, liberty and property left their imprint on the United States Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

Thomas Paine said that a just man deserves more respect than a crowned rogue. The people's right to rebel has been opposed only by reactionaries like that clergyman of Virginia, Jonathan Boucher,* who said that "The right to rebel is a censurable doctrine derived from Lucifer, the father of rebellions."

XLIX

The Declaration of Independence of the Congress of Philadelphia, on the 4th of July, 1776, consecrated this right in a beautiful paragraph which reads:

"... We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness,—That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its power in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

The famous French Declaration of the Rights of Man willed this principle to the coming generations:

"When the government violates the rights of the people, insurrection is for them the most sacred of rights and the most imperative of duties." "When a person seizes sovereignty, he should be condemned to death by free men."

I believe I have sufficiently justified my point of view. I have called forth more reasons than the Honorable Prosecutor called forth to ask that I be condemned to 26 years in prison. All support men who struggle for freedom and happiness of the people. None support those who oppress the people, revile them and loot them heartlessly. Therefore, I have had to call forth many reasons and he could not adduce a single one.

How can you justify the presence of Batista in power, since he gained power against the will of the people and by violating the laws of the Republic through the use of treachery and force?

Jonathan Boucher. 1738-1804. English clergyman in the American colonies, who so opposed the American Revolutionary movement from his pulpit that he was forced to resign his parish and return to England.

How can you qualify as legitimate a regime of blood, oppression, and ignominy? How can you call a regime revolutionary when it has combined the most backward men, the most backward ideas and the most backward bureaucracy? How can you consider legally valid the high treason of a court whose mission was to defend our constitution?

With what right do the courts send to prison citizens who tried to redeem their country by giving their own blood—their own lives?

All this is monstrous in the eyes of the nation and is monstrous according to the principles of true justice.

L

But there is one argument that aids us more than all the others. We are Cubans and to be Cuban implies a duty. Not to fulfill that duty is a crime, is treason.

We are proud of the history of our country. We learned history in school and we have grown up hearing of liberty, justice and human rights.

We were taught to venerate the glorious example of our heroes and our martyrs. Cespedes, Agramonte, Maceo, Gomez y Marti were the first names engraved in our minds. We were taught that the titan Maceo had said that liberty is not begged but is won with the blade of a machete.

We were taught that for the guidance of Cuba's free citizens the Apóstol wrote in his Book of Gold:* "The man who conforms by obeying unjust laws and permits anybody to trample the country in which he was born, the man who so mistreats his country, is not an honorable man."

"In the world there must be a certain degree of decorum just as there must be a certain amount of light. When there are many men without decorum, there are always others who bear in themselves the dignity of many men. These are the men who rebel with great force against those who steal the people's freedom—that is to say, against those who steal human dignity itself."

El libro de oro. The Golden Book. A collection of stories in magazine form that Jose Martí prepared for children.

We were taught that the 10th of October* and the 24th of February* are glorious anniversaries of national rejoicing because they mark days in which Cubans rebelled against the yoke of infamous tyrannies.

We were taught to cherish and defend the beloved flag of the single star. We sang every afternoon a hymn whose verses say that to live in chains is to live in opprobrium . . . that to die for the country is to live.

All this we learned and will never forget, even though today in our land there is murder and prison for the men who practice the ideas taught to them since the cradle. We were born in a free country which was our heritage from our forefathers. The island would sink into the sea before we would consent to be slaves of anybody.

LI

It seemed that the veneration for the Apóstol was going to die in his Centenary. It seemed that his memory would be extinguished forever. So great was the affront! But his dream lives. It has not died. His people are rebellious. His people are worthy. His people are faithful to his memory. There are Cubans who have fallen defending his doctrines. There are boys who in magnificent selflessness came to die beside his tomb, giving their blood and their lives so that [the dream of Martí] could continue to live in the heart of his country. Cuba, what would have become of you if you had forsaken your Apóstol?

I come to the close of my defense plea but I will not end it as lawyers usually do—asking that the accused be freed. I cannot ask freedom for myself while my comrades are suffering in the ignominious prison of Isla de Pinos. Send me there to join them and to share their fate. It is understandable that honest men should be dead or in prison in [this] Republic where the president is a criminal and a thief.

To the Honorable Magistrates, my sincere gratitude for having allowed me to express myself freely without petty interruptions, I hold no bitterness toward you. I recognize that in certain aspects you have been humane and I know that the Presiding Officer of this court, a man of unimpeachable private life, cannot disguise his repugnance at the current state of affairs that oblige him to dictate unjust decisions.

Still, there remains for this hearing a more serious problem, the issues arising from the murder of seventy men—that is to say, the greatest massacre we have ever known. The guilty continue at liberty with a weapon in hand—a weapon which continually threatens the citizens. If all the weight of the law does not fall upon [the guilty] because of cowardice, or because of domination of the courts—and if then, all the magistrates and judges do not resign, I pity you. And I regret the unprecedented shame that will fall over the judicial system.

I know that imprisonment will be as hard for me as it has ever been for anyone—filled with cowardly threats and wicked torture. But I do not fear prison, just as I do not fear the fury of the miserable tyrant who snuffed life out of 70 brothers of mine.

Sentence me. I don't mind. History will absolve me.

10th of October. October 10, 1868, when cry of "Yara" began struggle for freedom from Spain.

24th February. Feb. 24, 1895 was the date that opened Cuba's final struggle for Independence from Spain.

SUBJECT: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA IS - CUBA

In the March 12, 1960, issue of "Hoy," official organ of the Communist Party of Cuba, appeared a group photograph of a number of unidentified young women. The caption of this photograph read as follows: "This group of North American beauties, who were invited by the National Institute of Tourist Industry (INIT) in order that they could attend the Cuban carnival, contributed $200 for the purchase of arms and airplanes for the defense of Cuban sovereignty. These girls also asked that they be given collection cans in order to collect funds in the street for this purpose and also promised that when they returned to the United States they would disclose the truth regarding the Cuban revolution in order to offset the campaign of defamation of the imperialist press."

[redacted] advised on March 25, 1960, that the leaders of the foregoing group were [redacted] and [redacted]. [redacted] stated that [redacted] and [redacted] arrived in Havana on February 19, 1960, accompanied by about 15 other individuals and registered at the Hotel Havana-Riviera. [redacted] stated this group was invited by the Cuban Revolutionary Government and remained in Cuba until March 13, 1960. All costs of transportation, etc., were paid by the Cuban Government.

On March 17, 1960, [REDACTED] INS agent, U. S. Embassy, Havana, confidentially advised that the following individuals had been invited by INIT of the Cuban Government:

[REDACTED] stated that the foregoing group resided at the Havana-Riviera Hotel while in Havana.

Enclosed are two clippings, one from the March 12, 1960, issue of "Hoy," and one from the March 11, 1960, issue of "Excelsior," both Havana, Cuba, concerning the foregoing individuals. For the information of the Bureau and the offices concerned, "Excelsior" is a daily Spanish language newspaper published in Havana which is in favor of the Cuban Revolutionary Government.

Inasmuch as [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are described by [REDACTED] as the leaders of this group, extra copies of this letter have been prepared only for Cleveland and New York offices inasmuch as the Bureau may desire to have additional investigation conducted in this matter by those offices.

Indices of the Havana office contain no identifiable information concerning any of the individuals named above.

For the information of the Cleveland and New York offices, on March 15, 1960, [REDACTED] advised that as of that date on the basis of a complaint filed by [REDACTED] the Cuban police took into custody [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], both Cubans, on the charge of extortion and black mail. In his original complaint [REDACTED] stated these two individuals had requested $4,000 from him and if he did not pay he would be reported to INIT as being an undesirable American. [REDACTED] further stated that [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] on being questioned by the Cuban police admitted that they had engaged in homosexual activity with [REDACTED], when searched, had in his possession a key to the suite of rooms occupied by [REDACTED] at the Hotel Riviera, for which suite of rooms the Cuban Government paid $125.00 per day.

Havana 109-54

The "Le Coubre" disaster referred to in the "Excelsior" clipping refers to the explosion of the French ship on March 4, 1960, in the Havana harbor while this vessel was unloading explosives destined for the Cuban Rebel Army as a result of sabotage alleged committed by the United States.

Este grupo de bellezas norteamericanas, que fueron invitadas por el Instituto Nacional de Industria Turística, para que presenciaran los carnavales habaneros, contribuyó con 200 pesos para la compra de armas y aviones para la defensa de nuestra soberanía. Pero, además, las mismas pidieron que se les dieran alcancías para recorrer las calles recogiendo dinero para tales fines, y ofrecieron divulgar en los Estados Unidos, cuando regresen las verdades de la Revolución Cubana para contrarrestar la campaña de difamación de la prensa imperialista.

APORTE DE BELLEZAS NORTEAMERICANAS TODOS SANTA MUJERES

En un sencillo acto de fraternidad cubano-norteamericano, un grupo de jóvenes de Estados Unidos hicieron entrega al director del INIT, doctor Baudilio Castellanos, de $200.00 dólares recolectados entre ellas para la defensa de la soberanía de Cuba. nombre de sus compañeras, la señorita Zaldívar, hizo la entrega y mostró su preocupación por el desastre del "La Coubre".

...años; habrá como antes cedros y caobas, de los primeros ya hay cientos plantados.

Pensaban que el Ministerio iba a desaparecer con la presencia del LARA —expuso Miret—, sin embargo cada vez aquél es más grande. Y citó la serie de cosas que ahora se enfocan y acometen por el Ministerio de Agricultura y que no funcionaba antes.

En estos momentos se está estudiando una Ley Orgánica de Agricultura, anunció.

En torno al problema azucarero, dijo Miret, que el plan de agresión sobre la cuota está en el conocimiento de todos. «Pero he leído que la cuestión azucarera allá es como una especie de bumerang, en cuanto a los remoiacheros. Nosotros estamos entregados a un estudio integral de la industria azucarera. En Cuba tenemos una serie de posibilidades para estudiar la caña. Los planes nuestros no han irrogado gastos más que en 90 mil pesos y ya se ve lo que se ha avanzado. Casi podía asegurar que el azúcar podría ser un subproducto de la caña.

«Tenemos pocos técnicos en materia azucarera, pero además los malversamos mucho: a recé que lo que se persigue es asustarnos y declararnos una guerra de nervios, cosa que por demás no debe preocuparnos mucho, porque los cubanos tenemos un magnífico sistema nervioso a prueba de todas las eventualidades».

Se refirió el Ministro Miret a la mausúlia minera. «Iba en decenso, —observó—, pero de un año a esta parte, desde que el Gobierno Revolucionario asumió el Poder ha ido en aumento. La Ley de Minería, va directamente a ayudar a los pequeños mineros sobre todo. En el presente esta Ley nos permite adquirir los minerales, procesarlos y venderlos al mejor postor».

Se refirió después a la mina de Charco Redondo, que «dejaba pérdidas, —dijo—, no solamente por lo peligrosa para bajarla por parte de los mineros, sino por la forma en que se venía explotando. Todos estos poquitos, que hacían un gran mucho, los hemos ido superando y la producción actual pasa de 140 toneladas diarias. Ciertamente que no hay mercado fijo, pero los estamos creando y dentro de poco tiempo la producción será situada en su totalidad en el mercado».

realmente capacitado para resolver definitivamente en nuestro país esa situación».

EJEMPLOS

Puso como ejemplo de acriterio, a países como Argentina, Uruguay, Venezuela, México y especialmente Puerto Rico. Seguidamente explicó cómo el Gobierno, después de estudiar otros organismos existentes decidió a crear la CONACA, comendándosele inmediatamente la administración, operación y mantenimiento de todos los acueductos y alcantarillados que habían sido creados por el Estado o por los organismos paratales, y la alta vigilancia de las empresas privadas dedicadas a la prestación de estos servicios.

Después el orador explicó condiciones tanto económicas como científicas en que de prestarse aquellos servicios, acenando que la primera rea realizada por la Revolución fue la de estructurar toda administración y la operación llevando el servicio a las más técnicas.

AUMENTO

Cifras importantes citadas por Meléndez Fresneda, fue el aumento de 43,000 usua hasta llegar a un total de 152,513.

From: John Edgar Hoover, Director

Subject: CUBAN PROPAGANDA ACTIVITIES
IN THE UNITED STATES
FOREIGN MISCELLANEOUS - CUBA

On March 25, 1960, a source who has furnished reliable data in the past advised our Miami Office that Rene Montemar, coordinator of Radio Station 3020 in Havana, Cuba, has been directed by Fidel Castro and Juan Ortiz, secretary in charge of the Cuban prime minister's office, to establish a program in the United States that is to be known as "Operation Friendship." The purpose of this program is to promote a friendly atmosphere between the United States and Cuba and to stimulate tourism. The Cuban Government has appropriated one million dollars to finance this operation and plans to spend one quarter of the appropriation for the purchase of time on radio and television stations in this country in order to further the program.

The source also advised that 109-12-210 - NOT RECORDED 125 MAR 31 1960 a complete change is scheduled to take place among top officials of the Castro government. The purpose of this change is to introduce a new era of friendship between the United States and Cuba. In this connection, Cuban officials are attempting to synchronize the replacement of the personnel with the institution of the program, "Operation Friendship." In addition, the source revealed that the Confederation of Latin-American Tourist Organizations is planning to hold its third annual congress in Havana, Cuba, during the week of April 17, 1960. Approximately two thousand representatives are expected to attend the convention which is scheduled to be held in conjunction with the proposed change in policies of the Cuban Government.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

On March 24, 1960, a confidential informant advised he had lived in Cuba all of his life, until several months ago when he moved to the United States with his family to escape the oppression of the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. He said he returned to Cuba during early March, 1960, to conduct personal business, remaining in Cuba for about twelve days. He said he was given no particular trouble while there, as he made a pretense of being pro-Castro, but he made several observations and heard a number of things he desired to pass on to the United States Government.

The informant said on his arrival in Cuba, he was made to exchange all of his American money for pesos, but found it very difficult, being a nonresident, to spend his pesos as nonresidents are supposed to spend only dollars. He said he was also warned by friends on arrival there to do or wear nothing which would make him appear to have wealth or "the mobs" which are a constant threat, would take his valuables for the purpose or on the pretense of converting them to "the good of the revolution." The informant said "the mobs" are made up of persons from the poorer class in Cuba and is about the only group in Cuba which still favors Castro. He said from what he heard while in Cuba, among those who still favor Castro, there are two groups; one which favors the revolution but is against communism and one which favors the revolution as well as the communist influence in the government.

The informant said there are a great many people in Cuba, possibly the majority of the population, who are against the government, but appear to be afraid to take any action and the informant knew of no organization among this group. He said he knew of no particular person this group looks to for leadership, but supposed if there is any person more prominent than the others, that person is probably former Cuban [REDACTED] who now lives in exile in [REDACTED]

b7C

The informant said while in Cuba, he spoke with two old friends who are associated with the Cuban Government and who indicated they have come to realize that Castro's Government is not good for Cuba, but they feel there is nothing they can do about it except to keep their views to themselves and wait for an opportunity. He said one of these persons was [REDACTED] who is [REDACTED] for the Cuban Armed Forces. He said [REDACTED] indicated there are a number of persons in the Cuban Armed Forces ready to assist any move against Castro which has a chance of success, but until that opportunity presents itself, they are helpless to act alone. The other was [REDACTED] who works in one of the investigative branches of the Cuban Government and who also indicated it would be useless for him to speak out against Castro, so he plans to keep his views to himself and await an opportunity. The informant said [REDACTED] recommended that he, the informant, be quiet while in Cuba, but suggested that on his return to the United States, the informant should tell everyone about the real conditions in Cuba.

b7C

The informant said he had occasion to go to the National Bank of Cuba to seek the permission of Ernesto "Che" Guevara to bring his, the informant's, automobile to the United States, but Guevara refused the request, saying only that the automobile was needed in Cuba. The informant said his first attempt to see Guevara was not successful and Guevara's [REDACTED] advised that Guevara was busy in a conference with some Chinese and some Arabs relative to some sort of an alliance. The informant said later in the day, he observed some people who could be described as Chinese and Arabs leaving Guevara's office, but he knew nothing more about the reason for their being there. The informant said he had occasion to dine with [REDACTED] and his wife while in Cuba, since they are old friends of the family and he described [REDACTED] as having been a known communist for a number of years who now speaks very highly of "Che" Guevara. He said he gathered from what [REDACTED] said, [REDACTED] looks more to Guevara than to Castro as the leader of Cuba.

b7C

The informant said he also spoke at length, with [REDACTED] who is [REDACTED]. He also spoke with [REDACTED], an officer in [REDACTED] who is very much against Castro along with other friends and members of his, informant's, family. The informant furnished the following information obtained during his trip from these various sources which he believed to be of interest to the United States Government:

b7C

There are priests in the Catholic Church in Cuba who have communist ideals and are attempting to divide the church. Other officials of the church are aware of this and are approaching the situation with great care in order to avoid exposing the situation to public view. Fidel Castro has threatened to destroy the churches should any move be made against the regime or against the priests who are in sympathy with the regime.

Cuban school children are being taught to hate the United States and love Russia. One ten-year-old child, whose father instructed him not to join the student militia and that the things he was being taught are false, reported to his teacher what his father had said and the father is now in prison.

A number of the children are taught that when they see people buying "Diario De La Marina", a Cuban newspaper which is not favorable to the Castro regime, they should create a public incident and brand the individual as a counter-revolutionary.

Because many of the students at the University in Havana have protested against communism, some 600 young men from the country have been brought to Havana and provided with student identification cards. These young men have entered the university as students without actually being students in order to create the illusion that the students are pro-Castro. They support Fidel Castro, speak against the United States and report any student who is anti-Castro.

All employees of businesses in Cuba are regimented and are obliged to say things of an anti-United States nature.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

If they refuse, they are reported to the union and the union discharges them. At the Shell Oil Company in Cuba, many employees have been downgraded because they were not in agreement with the communists, but the union claims this action was taken because those individuals are counter-revolutionaries.

Industrialists and bankers are being told in anonymous telephone calls that if they show themselves to be anti-Castro, their businesses will be taken away and they and their families destroyed.

Many people who are anti-Castro display photographs of Castro in their homes and appear at various pro-Castro meetings in order to forestall reprisals.

The National Institute of Agrarian Reform and the National Bank of Cuba are both being directed by a Russian who has changed his name to a Spanish name. The instructions issued by this person are followed almost to the letter by "Che" Guevara.

Two groups of Chinese communists have arrived in Cuba since Fidel Castro took power there. The first group consisted of 270 persons and the second of 290 persons, all of whom were furnished with alien identification cards. Many of those cards were dated as much as two years before the actual arrival of the alien and since the cards were not issued by the immigration service, they have special numbers.

During a meeting which took place prior to the recent return to Cuba of United States Ambassador Philip Bonsal, Castro indicated that if his regime is obliged by special circumstances to deal with the United States, two groups will be created. One of these groups will be openly anti-United States, while the other will pretend friendship with the United States, which pretense will be quite false.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

On March 25, 1960, [REDACTED], who described himself as [REDACTED] of the Cuban Federation of Labor and said he had been residing in exile in Europe since the rise to power in Cuba of Fidel Castro until his recent arrival in Washington, D. C., furnished the following information to Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation: (u)

D

He advised that it would appear that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro is attempting to align himself with prominent United States labor leaders James Riddle Hoffa, President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Harry Bridges, President of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. [REDACTED] said he based that statement on information furnished him by two separate sources. (u)

D

W

He said [REDACTED] a good friend of his who is in the labor movement in Puerto Rico, advised him in a recent letter that Hoffa had recently been in Puerto Rico where he met with two Castro agents. [REDACTED] said [REDACTED] was not more specific about the identity of the Castro agents or the reason for the meeting. (u)

D

[REDACTED] also advised that Camillo Cienfuegos, who is now deceased and who was formerly the head of Castro's Armed Forces, was, in 1955, living in exile in New York City and around that time went to San Francisco, California, where he met with Harry Bridges. [REDACTED] did not know the reason for this meeting. In the Spring of 1959, when Fidel Castro made his trip to the United States, he was accompanied by Camillo Cienfuegos' brother, Osmani Cienfuegos, who is now the Minister of Public Works in Cuba. Osmani Cienfuegos did not, however, remain with Castro on his tour of the United (u)

States but rather went to San Francisco, where he, too, was in contact with Bridges. Again, [REDACTED] did not know the reason for that contact but added he got the above information from a friend, [REDACTED], a Castro lieutenant who is secretly opposed to Castro and who said he was present when Osmani Cienfuegos told Cuban Minister of Armed Forces Raul Castro about his contact with Bridges. (S) u

[REDACTED] also advised that Dr. Regino Boti Leon, Cuban Minister of Economy, is the son of Dr. Regino Boti and Caridad Leon Blanco. He said he is well acquainted with Boti Leon since [REDACTED] is a sister of Caridad Leon Blanco and he knows Boti Leon to be a communist. [REDACTED] said he knows this to be true because Boti Leon has told him so and has said he got his communist ideas from his wife whom he met and married outside of Cuba and who was a communist when they met. [REDACTED] said he has often heard Boti Leon argue in favor of the communist ideology and has heard him say the communists must rid the world of the United States and what it stands for. (S) u

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, a West Coast union, was ousted by the Congress of Industrial Organizations in 1950, as a communist dominated union. Harry Bridges, the President of that union, appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities during April, 1959, and invoked the Fifth Amendment to questions regarding Communist Party membership. RE: CUBAN POLITICAL ACTIVITIES
AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

On March 3, 1960, [REDACTED] who is well acquainted with many leading Cuban exiles residing in Miami and who also claims to have good personal contacts inside Cuba but who has furnished insufficient information to enable his reliability to be evaluated, reported having received the following information from a source inside Cuba considered most reliable by [REDACTED]:

[REDACTED] a well known Cuban Communist agent, made a trip to South America shortly prior to the recent South American tour of President DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER. He visited the same countries and the same cities in order to arrange for anti-United States demonstrations and pro-FIDEL CASTRO demonstrations to take place during the public appearances of President EISENHOWER.

[REDACTED] was followed on this trip by [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] acting on behalf of the Cuban government who visited the same countries and invited government representatives to visit Cuba for a conference to take place in April, 1960, in Cuba with representatives of Iron Curtain countries of Europe. Neither Chile nor Argentina accepted their invitation.

When [REDACTED] returned to Cuba, he was given a position as [REDACTED] as a reward for his services.

██████████ pointed out that simultaneously with the trip of ██████████ and ██████████ to South America, according to Cuban news sources, ERNESTO "CHE" GUEVARA, head of the Cuban National Bank and Cuban economy, was in Europe issuing similar invitations to European and Asian countries to send delegates to the same conference. b2 b7C D

He expressed the opinion the trip of ██████████ related to the student demonstrations against President EISENHOWER on his South American trip, as ██████████ according to newspaper sources, had been in contact with various student groups in South America. b7C

He also pointed out that it seemed very unlikely that the trip of ██████████ and ██████████ would have been timed so far in advance of the September conference if the trip was solely to issue invitations. b7C

██████████ said his opinions were also supported by the personal history and background of ██████████ and ██████████. He explained that ██████████ was a self-admitted Communist and had been one of the publishers of the clandestine Communist newspaper in Cuba, "Carta Semanal". He was arrested for Communist activities in 1958 by BRAC in Luyano Section, Havana. At present, according to ██████████ is referred to by Cuban radio and newspaper sources as an active organizer in the student revolutionary movement at the University of Havana in Havana, Cuba. b2 b7C D

██████████, according to records of BRAC, was a close sympathizer of the Communist cause in Cuba and an associate of many known members of the Communist Party of Cuba. b7C

██████████, a businessman who recently returned from an extended trip abroad, advised on April 18, 1960, that his recent business trip took him to the Far East and to several countries in Europe where he was in contact with individuals connected with the governments of the countries which he visited and with financial experts. ██████████ stated that in the Far East, principally in Tokyo, Japan, and Manila, Philippine Islands, the people with whom he conferred expressed amazement at the way in which the United States has tolerated Fidel Castro, Prime Minister of Cuba, and Castro's Government. The informant stated that these individuals were of the opinion that the United States should have exercised more severe measures against the Castro Government, as they firmly believe that Castro's Government was being directed by international Communism.

██████████ advised that in Europe he visited England, France, Switzerland, West Germany and Italy, and in these countries he had conferred with government officials and financial experts. ██████████ stated that individuals in banking circles in these countries have stated that they will have no dealings with the Castro Government in Cuba and will not extend to the Castro Government any lines of credit. ██████████ also stated that he had been told that there were two individuals, one a Colonel and one a Major of the Cuban Army who were regularly making deposits in numbered accounts in Switzerland for Fidel Castro. ██████████ stated that he was unable to ascertain the identities of the two Cuban officers who were making these deposits in Switzerland for Castro.

Re: Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

██████████, an individual who is engaged in banking activities, advised on April 20, 1960, that all banks in New York, with the exception of the Manufacturers Trust Company and the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company, have cancelled all lines of credit to Cuba. ██████████ stated that this will be a tremendous blow to the Castro Government, as the Castro Government desperately needs credit in order to carry out its program. The informant stated that the Manufacturers Trust Company and the Chemical Bank New York Trust Company have not cancelled lines of credit to the Trust Company of Cuba, Banco Gelats and possibly Banco Nunez because these three banks have for many years dealt with the New York banks and have excellent ratings. ██████████ advised that the only way the Cuban banks, through the National Bank of Cuba, can establish credit in the United States with New York banks is if they have a corresponding cash deposit in dollars in United States banks which would equal the letter of credit which was desired. ██████████ stated that this situation is not actually giving the Cuban banks lines of credit but is merely telling them in a polite way that there will be no credit extended to the Cuban banks because everyone knows that the Cuban banks do not have the necessary dollar deposits in the United States at the present time. ██████████ stated that without these compensating balances in United States currency in United States banks, the Cuban Government will be unable to obtain the credit which they so desperately need at the present time.

██████████ also advised that one of the officers of the Trust Company of Cuba had been sent to New York at the direction of Major Ernesto "Che" Guevara, President of the National Bank of Cuba, in order to talk to representatives of the New York banks in order to see whether or not credit could be established for Cuban banks in the United States. ██████████ stated that the aforementioned decision of the New York banks has been given to this representative of the Trust Company of Cuba and so far there has been no reaction from Guevara or Fidel Castro regarding this action on the part of United States bankers. ██████████ stated that from this representative of the Trust Company of Cuba he ascertained that there were shortages of prime necessities in Cuba today and the shortages will grow more severe in the immediate future.

Re: Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

██████████ also advised that he had spoken to a representative of the American and Foreign Power Company which is the parent company of the Cuban Electric Company, and he advised that at the present time the United States oil companies having interests in Cuba are meeting in order to decide what course of action the oil companies will take in Cuba. ██████████ stated that he was advised that the United States oil companies have extended to the Castro Government credit amounting to 50 million dollars and they have no hope of being paid. In addition to the 50 million dollars credit extended to the Castro Government, the United States oil companies also have in investments and properties a total of 200 million dollars in Cuba today. ██████████ stated that the United States oil companies feel that they will eventually be intervened and will thus lose all their holdings and that if they continue to extend credit to the Cuban Government, they will never be paid. ██████████ stated that he was advised that the question confronting the United States oil people is whether or not any action which they decide upon will be misinterpreted by the Castro Government as reflecting an official action on the part of the United States Government and will thus give Fidel Castro an opportunity of criticizing the United States Government and the United States State Department for bringing economic pressures on Cuba. ██████████ stated that it is not known at the present time what decision will be made by the United States oil companies, as some desire to continue operation while others want to cut the shipments of crude oil to Cuba. ██████████ stated that in the event the United States oil companies cut the shipments of crude oil to Cuba, such a move would cripple the Cuban economy within a period of 3 to 6 days. ██████████ stated that the Cuban Electric Company is one of the biggest consumers of oil in Cuba and if the supply is cut, it will have a drastic effect upon the economy in Cuba.

██████████ stated that another reason for which the United States oil companies desire to cut supplies to Cuba is because they have recently paid to the Cuban Government a total of 6 million pesos which was the total indebtedness of the United States companies to the Cuban Government, and that

b2

Re: Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

they have been paid only in pesos, cannot convert the pesos into United States dollars, and cannot transfer the pesos out of Cuba. [REDACTED] stated that hence the oil companies in Cuba are building up a large reserve of Cuban pesos which they are unable to use and as a result are financially unstable as far as taking out profits from their operations within Cuba. b2 b7D

[REDACTED] also advised on April 20, 1960, that in conversation with the representative of the Trust Company of Cuba, he was told that there is prevalent in Havana the persistent rumor that there would be some type of a well unified invasion between Holy Week and May 2, 1960. [REDACTED] also advised that this representative of the Trust Company of Cuba had stated that on May 1, 1960, Fidel Castro, in the May Day celebration, will declare the Republic of Cuba as the Cuban Socialist Republic, and that after May 1, 1960, no one will be allowed to leave Cuba. [REDACTED] also stated that at the present time there are restrictions placed on technicians and specialized individuals in Cuba who are prohibited from leaving the island. [REDACTED] also stated that this representative of the Trust Company of Cuba stated that the people in Cuba today are very much in the same frame of mind and emotions as they were shortly before the overthrow of the Batista Government on January 1, 1959. [REDACTED] stated that he was told by this individual that the people anticipate something big to happen within the country very shortly, and that a common expression used in Havana today is "Another day has passed and it is better than tomorrow." b2 b7D

Re: ACTIVITIES OF THE CASTRO GOVERNMENT IN CUBA

On April 18, 1960, a confidential source abroad furnished the following information which he stated had been obtained from a person who was formerly very pro-FIDEL CASTRO but who recently left Cuba for Spain because of disagreement with the policies of the CASTRO government:

An ~~X~~AGIT-PRO" office <sup>Cuba</sup> is in the process of being set up by the CASTRO government, and the principal directors of this office are CARLOS RAFAEL RODRIGUEZ, [REDACTED], and [REDACTED]. Source described RODRIGUEZ as the leading intellectual of the Communist Party of Cuba. He said that [REDACTED] is [REDACTED] in the University of Havana and is no relation to ERNESTO "CHE" GUEVARA. It was his recollection that [REDACTED] spent a considerable amount of time some years ago in Czechoslovakia and other Iron Curtain countries as the Cuban representative of a Communist youth organization. Source described [REDACTED] as a Communist fellow traveler whose name has been associated with various Communist front activities in Cuba in the past. 57C

Source said that the principal activity of this new office will be directed toward the establishment of a radio station to be called "La Voz de Puerto Rico Libre" (The Voice of Free Puerto Rico).

It is the understanding of the source that while this station will be operated in Cuba, efforts will be made to leave the impression that it is a clandestine radio station operating within Puerto Rico itself and that its programs will be aimed at urging Puerto Ricans to stage a revolution for the purpose of obtaining its independence from the United States. At the same time it will carry on a program of agitation and propaganda in favor of the CASTRO government in Cuba.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Clark Equipment International,
Post Office Box 2717, Havana, Cuba, furnished the following information to this Bureau:

They are concerned because United States trade with Latin-American countries is receding. They are also concerned over the threat of communism in Latin America. Since the middle of 1957 there has been a concerted drive by communist countries to take over Latin-American countries. An increase in Soviet and satellite trade penetration of Latin America has been noted.
President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela has been sending large sums of money on a regular basis to Fidel Castro for the purpose of strengthening the Cuban Government. This has been "bankrupting"
Venezuela and has caused deprivation and unrest there.
Nevertheless, the crisis in Cuba is growing worse and could result in civil strife or a revolution in coming months.

is [REDACTED] for Fidel Castro and for Romulo Betancourt and allegedly is the link between them in financial and armament matters. [REDACTED], who represents the South American Financial Union, allegedly has been working with Fidel Castro and is suspected of being a front for Castro in financial dealings. The Decor International Corporation of America, 1795 Coral Way, Miami, Florida, possibly is a front for Castro or Betancourt and its operations allegedly are based in Caracas, Venezuela.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

On April 21, 1960, a confidential informant who has furnished reliable information in the past, learned from [REDACTED] that she had received a "very interesting report" concerning an editorial which recently appeared in the newspaper "El Colonista" of Tegucigalpa, Honduras. [REDACTED] explained that she had furnished the information to [REDACTED] of the Cuban Military Office for his future use. It was not explained to the informant what use [REDACTED] was to make of the information. b7C

According to [REDACTED], her report stated that the agrarian reform imposed on Japan by General Douglas Mac Arthur subsequent to World War II was more rigorous than the program presently being pursued in Cuba. It was stated that Mac Arthur imposed the above reform upon a country other than his own whereas the Cubans are doing it in their own country in accordance with the sacred right of peoples to act in accordance with their own conceptions of what is good for themselves. The report added that no one had called Mac Arthur a communist nor had anyone "demanded his head." It was stated that no tears were wasted on Japan since the only persons hurt in the operation were the Japanese. In Cuba, however, there are a number of United States land owners who are being "pressed." The report added that the last statement explained the difference. b7C

[REDACTED] commented that the editorial was particularly good and appropriate. In addition, she stated that it comes from Honduras which, as is generally known, is little more than a "fief of the United Fruit Company." b7C

The "Diplomatic List," issued by the United States Department of State in February, 1960, reveals that [REDACTED] is [REDACTED] b7C

ANTI-FIDEL CASTRO ACTIVITIES
FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

On April 13, 1960, [REDACTED],
Bachman Wholesale Company, 1073 Clinton Avenue, North, Rochester,
New York, furnished the following:

The Hunter Hawkers Airplanes are located in England.
The British Government who owned the airplanes will not release them. The Serial Numbers of the airplanes are as follows:

WP 102	123	139	979
103	125	148	987
104	130	186	990
106	136	970

[REDACTED] believes that there were 20 airplanes available, however, he was furnished only the Serial Numbers of 15. He advised that he has no further record concerning the identity of these airplanes.

[REDACTED] said he was in Italy in September 1959, at which time he heard that there were a number of surplus Hunter Hawkers located in Belgium. About three months later he learned that the airplanes were not in Belgium, but in England. He said a number of countries were interested in obtaining the airplanes, among which were Venezuela and the Dominican Republic. He said he had intended to buy the airplanes for $210,000 each and sell them for approximately $250,000 each.

[REDACTED] has no information relative to the identity of the middlemen who were attempting to effect the purchase of the airplanes through him for a particular country. He is of the opinion that the transaction will not go through in view of the reluctance of the British Government to release the airplanes.

██████████ said he feels certain that the British Government will not release the airplanes for sale to countries in the Caribbean area. He feels that the present situation between the United States and Cuba would prevent the British Government from effecting a sale to an area where any form of trouble exists between the United States and a particular government.

██████████ had no further information concerning the Hunter Hawkers. b7C

Re Legat, Havana, cable to Bureau 4/19/60 captioned as above.

Enclosed is an article bearing the title "This Happened in the Rodi Movie, etc." which appeared in the April 18, 1960, issue of "Revolucion", Havana, Cuba, which paper describes itself as the (official organ of the July 26 Movement.) [REDACTED], U. S. Embassy, Havana, describes the Movie Institute of Cuba as a government-controlled censorship board for the control of the exhibition of films of foreign origin and said that it is headed by [REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] is a member of the Communist Party of Cuba.

LOS APATRIDAS...

Continuación de la pág. Primera mo es su costumbre— o los más Cavernícolas, Avenida de Wilson? ha sido escenario de las más bochornosas demostraciones que puedan darse en Cuba, desde que Estrada Palma pidió la aplicación de la Enmienda Platt. Un grupo de «siquitrillados», «latifundistas», «lectores del Diario de la Marina», «suscriptores de Prensa Libre», ¿o todo eso junto? —al que llamaremos por su nombre: apátridas (y por si no lo saben, porque esta burguesía antinacional se caracteriza también por su analfabetismo, apátrida quiere decir gente sin patria y sin bandera) aplaude cada noche, al terminar un bodro enlatado que se llama «EL FBI en Acción» —un actor americano vence a todos los gangsters con la mano izquierda, mientras con la derecha llama ¡por un teléfono rojo! a Edgar Hoover para acabar con los comunistas—, una bandera americana que aparece ondeando en el monumento a los «marines» en Washington. Estos descastados no saben —o lo saben muy bien— que el monumento glorifica todos los desembarcos de las tropas colonialistas yanquis, realizados para «proteger» la libertad y la democracia —mientras dura la «protección» se roba a Puerto Rico, se asesina a los patriotas haitianos, se aniquila a Sandino, se coloca en el poder a Trujillo, se ocupa Filipinas, se ata económicamente a Cuba, etc. etc.

Pues bien, en Rodi's Moviehouse» ocurrió anoche un suceso memorable. Como cada noche los apátridas aplaudían la bandera americana —su bandera, es natural—, los trabajadores del cine idearon un modo de terminar con el patriotismo yanqui de los siquitrillados, latifundistas, y compañía. Al termina la película y cuando iban todos los extranjeros a comenzar a aplaudir, se escucharon —claras, precisas, definidas— las notas del himno nacional. Por supuesto, los apátridas no tuvieron otro remedio que reaccionar: ¡por primera vez esta gente acostumbrada a estar de rodillas pudo ponerse en pie!

██████████ said that ██████████ had been in frequent contact recently with ██████████, who is ██████████. b2 b7C 5

██████████ alleged to have $80,000 American dollars in his possession which had been given to him by ██████████ to buy arms and ammunition in the United States, if possible, and in Cuba. ██████████ said he had met with no success in attempting to purchase weapons in the United States and was, therefore, leaving for Havana, Cuba, via National Airlines at 8:30 AM, on April 26, 1960. While in Havana, ██████████ expects to purchase the necessary arms and enlist the support of the Cuban Government for the revolution led by ██████████. b7C

In regard to this, ██████████ emphasized, "Although one stick may be weak, a bundle is strong," and then went on to express the hope that ██████████ will be successful and that an alliance with the new Ecuadorian Government may be accomplished with Cuba. b7C

██████████ said that during the past six months several Cubans have gone to Ecuador to teach demolition and sabotage techniques to the opposition group led by ██████████ in the areas of Quito and Guayaquil, Ecuador. b7C

██████████ also expressed a desire to purchase some incendiary devices, although he admitted his group had met with success using bottles 3/4 full of gasoline and 1/4 full of oil, and capped with a cork. ██████████ explained that a newspaper is then impregnated with a certain potassium compound solution, wrapped around the bottle, and then allowed to dry. When the bottle is broken, the b7C

██████ felt certain that while in Cuba, he would be able to purchase all the implements of war needed, since already several shipments of arms have gone from Cuba to Ecuador. These munitions are placed in barrels which are filled at the top with shoes and clothing. Ecuadorian Customs officials are then paid to allow these barrels to enter Ecuador without undergoing inspection. The arms shipments will be made directly to Guayaquil.

██████████ is leaving for Cuba on April 25, 1960, to visit with CARLOS PRIO SOCARRAS, former Cuban President, for a week, and will meet ██████████ in Havana in order to assist him in the necessary arms negotiations.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

On April 19, 1960, a confidential informant advised he had received the following information by mail from a friend residing in [REDACTED], which friend the informant considers to be an honorable and reliable person. The informant said his friend, who is actually anti-Castro but is accepted in Cuba as being pro-Castro, obtained the information from persons who are pro-Castro or pretend to be or the information was generally rumored in Havana. Where his friend specified the source of the information, that source will be set forth below:

b7D

[REDACTED] in [REDACTED] advised that there were two men in Cuba whose identity she did not disclose but who have a history of communist activity in Cuba. These men attempted to obtain visas to come to the United States but were experiencing difficulty in obtaining same due to their background. When Cuban Minister of the Armed Forces Raul Castro heard of this, he arranged for two passports bearing false names and photographs to be sent by the Cuban Ministry of Foreign Relations to the American Embassy with a request for tourist visas. The passports having been visaed, the photographs of the two persons were placed on the passports in the office of Raul Castro and the individuals were able to enter the United States. [REDACTED] advised that the leader of these two men was given two thousand dollars in fifty dollar bills by [REDACTED] of the Office of Raul Castro in order to carry out their mission in the United States. This event reportedly transpired during the last two weeks of March, 1960, and those two individuals are reportedly in the United States. They entered the United States at

New York City, mode of transportation unknown, and the informant had no information concerning the mission of these persons.

[redacted] also advised that Raul Castro has in his possession false Guatemalan and Mexican passports. These passports are blank and have apparently been stolen from those countries. They are subject to being completed in Cuba and are intended to be furnished to persons having the appearance of natives of those countries. When questioned concerning the purpose of the passports, the informant advised he could only presume that they are for the purpose of effecting illegal entries by Cubans into the United States on missions in behalf of the Cuban Government. b7C

[redacted] a member of DIER (the Cuba investigative division of the Cuban Revolutionary Army) who is a member in good standing in the Revolutionary Government but is actually opposed to the Castro regime, advised that there are at present thirty two Cubans in Russia who are being trained as pilots. The first group of these pilots is expected to return to Havana, Cuba, during the first part of May, 1960. b7C

✓ [redacted] Cuba also a member of DIER, advised that the first Russian MIGs received in Cuba are now ready to fly. According to [redacted] these planes were assembled in Cuba having been received in crates. The crates were kept in warehouses until their transfer to a location in the vicinity of a drydock which is being built in Casablanca, Cuba. At present the only persons who know the location of these planes are Raul Castro and the Russian personnel who have charge of them. It is rumored these planes may be displayed to the Cuban people on May 1, 1960, as a display of power by the Cuban Government. b7C

[redacted] Cuba in Havana, Cuba, and [redacted] of the Cuban Revolutionary Army, recently stated that all of the clubs, associations and committees of the July 26th Movement, wherever located, are centers of communist activity. In many cases, these clubs are more important than the embassies and diplomatic establishments b7C in the countries where they are located. Already designated specialized personnel are being trained to work in conjunction with these clubs. Among the first to receive special attention will be the July 26th Organization in Washington, D. C. These clubs are also functioning in Miami, Florida, Puerto Rico, Mexico and many other places.

On July 26, 1953, Fidel Castro led an unsuccessful attack on the Moncada Barracks in Cuba and it is from that incident that the July 26th Movement has taken its name.

It is rumored in Cuba that a special team organized for that purpose will soon embark on a project of circulating in the United States counterfeit money in order to acquire bona fide United States currency in exchange. Although he did not know the purpose of this operation, the informant presumed the intention is to acquire United States dollars to meet the growing Cuban deficit in that regard.

NOTE: Information concerning the alleged entrance of two unidentified Cubans into the U. [REDACTED] obtained the information in a letter from [REDACTED] who is residing in [REDACTED] and who is presently handling [REDACTED] business interest in Cuba. Although the reliability of information obtained from [REDACTED] has not been established, it is believed we should initiate inquiries concerning the alleged entrance of Cubans under false passports because of seriousness of charge. In addition, it is believed we should alert offices conducting investigations on July 26 clubs in view of report that the Cuban Government is placing importance on these groups and is reportedly training individuals to operate these groups. b7C

INTERNAL SECURITY - CUBA

The "Yale Daily News", an undergraduate students newspaper at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut, issue of March 15, 1960, page 1, contained an article reflecting that MANUEL BISBE, Cuban Ambassador to the United Nations, would present a lecture at the Yale Law School, as a guest of the Inter-American Legal Studies Group. The article stated that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED], an aide to Mr. BISBE, would act as an interpreter during a question and answer period. The article stated that the Inter-American Legal Studies Group was presenting Mr. BISBE's lecture as one of a series of programs on diplomatic relations in the Americas.

Another article in this same issue of the "Yale Daily News" reflected that four students at the Yale Law School planned to visit Cuba to survey laws currently enforced by the CASTRO regime, and would attempt to study the political, social and economic effects of these laws. The article stated that the four law students were [REDACTED], a first year law student, and a graduate of [REDACTED];

[REDACTED], a graduate student in law from [REDACTED]; [REDACTED], a graduate student in law from [REDACTED]; and [REDACTED], a first year law student who graduated from [REDACTED]. The article stated that the two Spanish speaking students would serve as interpreters for the others while [REDACTED] would accompany the group as a secretary.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

According to the article, the trip by this group is an outgrowth of a project by twenty-five students in the Yale Law School interested in Latin-American legal studies.

The "Yale Daily News", issue of March 21, 1960, pages 1 and 5, contained an article reflecting that MANUEL BISBE, supra, had given an address at the Yale Law School auditorium on Friday afternoon, April 18, 1960, in which he discussed the Cuban Revolution and the subsequent policies initiated by the CASTRO regime. The article quoted BISBE as stating:

"Cuba's past battle was against colonialism; today's battle is against the interference of America".

Relative to the recent explosion of the French freighter LA COUBRE, which was carrying a cargo of Belgium arms to Cuba, Mr. BISBE attacked the right of the United States to place an embargo on the sale of arms and ammunition to Cuba by another country. He was quoted as stating:

"We cannot help but wonder that the United States' embargo on arms must have something to do with the explosion. However, Prime Minister CASTRO's remarks were misconstrued to mean he was directly charging that the United States had a hand in the sabotage. Prime Minister CASTRO will rectify his statement when the current investigation has proved if the United States is involved or not. Until then he has the right to think.

"A major target of recent attacks against the CASTRO regime has been the infiltration of communism into Cuba. Mr. BISBE labeled these attacks 'baseless assertions which can be disproved by facts.' He used Prime Minister

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CASTRO's goodwill trip to the US and recent removal of Communist leaders from Cuban posts as evidence to support his statement. Dismissing any communistic implications in MIKOYAN's visit to Cuba, he pointed that MIKOYAN visited the United States first.

"Turning to the question of Cuban elections, Ambassador BISBE echoed recent government statements that elections would be held 'at the earliest date after the success of the movement has been secured.'

"After describing the 'machete rule' of the BATISTA regime and the socio-economic condition of the working people, he dealt with the sugar situation and confiscation of land under the agrarian reform program. Mr. BISBE pointed out that American sugar interests had control of Cuba's best land. He said that the CASTRO regime felt a 'pressing obligation to return the land to those who work it; payment for land taken would be in the form of bonds payable in 20 years at no higher than 4½ percent interest. Cuba doesn't want to do away with sugar, but it also doesn't want to depend on it solely'."

INTERNAL SECURITY

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS, IS-CUBA. IN TELEVISION APPEARANCE APRIL 22 LAST CASTRO DECLARED: OFFER TO HELP VENEZUELA PUT DOWN RECENT COUNTERREVOLUTION WAS SIMPLY DUTY OF CUBA. IF ALL LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS HELPED EACH OTHER IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR POWER NATIONS AND INTERESTS TO SET UP AND MAINTAIN MILITARY DICTATORSHIPS SUCH AS CUBA WAS, AND SANTO DOMINGO, HAITI, NICARAGUA AND PARAGUAY ARE. EISENHOWER HAS BETRAYED AMERICAN PEOPLE AND THOSE WHO DIED FIGHTING NAZIISM AND FASCISM IN WORLD WAR TWO. IF CASTRO HAD KEPT SPECIAL PRIVILEGES, FAVORED BIG INTERESTS, MONOPOLIES, CONVERTED SCHOOLS INTO FORTS, MAINTAINED EXHORBITANT ELECTRIC AND TELEPHONE RATES, EISENHOWER WOULD NOT HAVE ACCUSED HIM OF BETRAYAL OF REVOLUTION BUT WOULD HAVE EMBRACED HIM AS DEMOCRAT AND FRIEND LIKE HE DID FRANCO. EISENHOWER, HERTER, BONSAI APPARENTLY HAVE NOTHING ELSE TO THINK OF BUT CUBA, YET WERE NEVER PREOCCUPIED WITH BATISTA, TRUJILLO AND DICTATORSHIPS. WORLD WAR TWO BEGAN WITH HEROIC BATTLE IN SPAIN WHERE THOUSANDS, INCLUDING AMERICANS, GAVE THEIR LIVES IN INTERNATIONAL BRIGADES FIGHTING FASCISM. UNITED STATES PROPAGANDA REMINDS HIM OF GOEBBELS, REPEATING LIES OVER AND OVER. CONCLUDED DOLLAR RESERVES INCREASING, LOCAL CUBAN TOURISM KEEPING HOTELS PRACTICALLY FULL, COUNTERREVOLUTIONARY FIGHTING IN HILLS OF ORIENTE STRICTLY A POLICE SEARCH TO LOCATE A MURDERER. COMPLAINED ONLY COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES

Re: Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

On April 27, 1960, [REDACTED] advised that in conversation with close friends who recently left Cuba he learned that Catholic Church officials have drawn up an "Encyclical" which harshly condemns the present Cuban Government. The encyclical will attack the government for confiscating property and abolishing the right of ownership of private property. [REDACTED] advised that the government has not actually abolished the right to own property yet but most Cubans believe that this will be announced soon, probably on May 1, 1960 when Castro is scheduled to make a speech. Many Cubans also feel that Castro may take this opportunity to also announce that Cuba is officially a Socialist State. b2 b7D

[REDACTED] advised that the encyclical mentioned above was written prior to Easter and Cubans can not understand why it has not been released. It is felt that one reason may be that Church officials are waiting until after the May 1st speech. Another reason may be that three well known priests in Cuba are still favorable to Castro. They are [REDACTED] (first name unknown) b2 b7C D

CUBA { [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] (first name unknown) who is [REDACTED]. Because these priests still favor Castro the Church may feel that an embarrassing situation might result if the encyclical is released now.

[REDACTED] went on to advise that Cubans expect Castro to soon take over all safe deposit accounts. Also he understands that soon Cubans who are granted visas to leave Cuba for a visit will have to pay a 500 peso tax to the Cuban Government as a fine for leaving the country. b2 b7D

[REDACTED] said that in addition to the aforementioned individuals, [REDACTED] also was in attendance and was the principal speaker at the meeting, and his remarks were very critical of the US and President DWIGHT D. Re: Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

*Peru,
Chile,
Venezuela,
Colombia*

[REDACTED], Porter - Cable Machine Company, Syracuse, New York, on April 27, 1960, advised that he had recently returned from an extended trip to the Caribbean and South America. [REDACTED] advised that he was in the Caribbean and South America from February 13, 1960, until April 18, 1960, and during this time had spent several days in Havana, Cuba. [REDACTED] advised that he had spoken to many people in Cuba on business matters and from these people he was able to obtain their personal opinions. [REDACTED] advised that the following items of interest were obtained from individuals in Havana, Cuba: b7C

A majority of the Cuban people feel that Prime Minister Fidel Castro has overdone his plans for the Republic of Cuba and now finds himself in a very difficult position as far as Communist influence within the present Cuban Government. [REDACTED] stated that the people feel that Fidel Castro himself is personally honest but that he may have extended himself too far in regard to the assistance and advice which he has accepted from the Communist leaders in Cuba. [REDACTED] advised that the peasants feel that they have been cheated in the promises made by Castro during the revolution and that the land which has been given to them does not actually belong to them but rather to the State or to large cooperatives. [REDACTED] stated that the peasants as of the present time are still loyal to Castro but they have misgivings concerning him and could very easily turn against him. b7C

[REDACTED] stated that from the business men he has learned that the people engaged in business in Cuba have refused to invest their capital in any business enterprise because business in Cuba is so uncertain and it is operated on a day to day basis. [REDACTED] advised that there was not a b7C

single worthwhile business in Cuba today which Castro, either directly or indirectly, does not control. Castro, in order to support many of his programs, has instituted harsh policies towards the business men such as in the case of importers. Their books for the past five, eight, or ten years have been reexamined and the Government has claimed that they have not paid enough taxes and are asked and practically forced to pay an additional 50% or they have been threatened with intervention. [REDACTED] stated that one rather successful business man in Cuba told him that Castro has completely choked the economy of Cuba and has accomplished in one year what it took Mussolini and Hitler ten years to accomplish. b7C

[REDACTED] also advised that in Cuba today the Communist Party (CP) is quite strong but the people look to Fidel Castro as the symbol of the revolution, and do not believe that he is a Communist. [REDACTED] stated that the general opinion of the people in Cuba is that Raul Castro, Minister of Defense, and Ernesto "Che" Guevara, President of the National Bank, are communists who are controlled by Fidel Castro. [REDACTED] stated that there are quite prevalent rumors in Cuba that Raul Castro, "Che" Guevara, and Fidel Castro are quarreling among themselves and it is also rumored that Fidel Castro may send Raul Castro abroad as minister without portfolio and if he accomplishes this he may be able to send "Che" Guevara out of Cuba. b7C

[REDACTED] stated that he had been in Havana, Cuba, during the middle of February, 1960, at which time he stayed at the Nacional Hotel, and during the same period of time there were missions in Cuba from East Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Poland. [REDACTED] stated that at that particular time the people in the Cuban Government were temporarily awaiting the arrival of a mission from Red China. b7C

[REDACTED] also advised that the feeling among the majority of the people in Cuba is that Russia made a blunder in putting on its exhibit in Havana, Cuba, because the various items of machinery and other objects on display were very much inferior to the machinery and other items which Cuba usually purchases from the United States. b7C

██████████ also stated that the Cuban people felt that the visit of Anastas Mikoyan, Deputy Premier of Russia, was a great blunder on the part of the Russians because the Cuban people basically are friendly to the United States and are against all forms of Communism. b7C

██████████ advised also that the propaganda machine which has been operating in Cuba since the ascension to power by Fidel Castro is fantastic. ██████████ stated that Castro knows how to arouse the Cubans and appeal to their emotions and that the hate campaign being waged against the United States by Castro has reached many people and it will take some time for the United States to overcome the feelings Castro has instilled into the people. ██████████ stated that the main cause for propaganda in Cuba against the United States is the flights from the Florida area over Cuba either to drop leaflets or to drop bombs on the sugar cane fields. ██████████ stated that if the United States could so enforce its coverage of the Florida area in order to restrict flights from the United States over Cuba, he and a majority of the people with whom he spoke, feel that Castro could not make much propaganda against the United States. b7C

██████████ advised that after leaving Cuba he traveled to Lima, Peru, Guayaquil, Ecuador, Chile, Venezuela, and Columbia. ██████████ stated that among the people in Peru, Ecuador, Chile and Columbia, there is a very strong anti-Castro feeling. ██████████ stated that the people in these countries feel that Castro has overplayed his hand and they are afraid that the spirit of the Cuban Revolution might be instilled into the people in their country and they would end up in the same trouble as Cuba is in today. ██████████ stated that in Columbia there is a very pro-American attitude concerning the present Cuban-United States relationship and practically 100% of the people with whom he spoke during his recent trip were most laudatory of the attitude which the United States has taken in its relationship with Cuba. ██████████ stated that in his opinion the United States by its policy of "patience with Cuba" has gained tremendously in Latin America. b7C

██████████ advised that the present situation in Venezuela is extremely dangerous and uncertain. ██████████ stated that Venezuela is faced with an economic crisis at the present time because construction has stopped, unemployment is acute and Venezuelan capital is going out of the country. ██████████ stated that recently there were two runs on the banks in Venezuela but the Venezuelan Government put money into the banks in order that the banks would not be closed. ██████████ stated that the strongest force within Venezuela is the military and there may soon be a very quick change in government and the government would again be in the control of the military. b7C

██████████ advised that the oil companies in Venezuela have stopped their expansion programs and this has affected the economy of Venezuela very greatly. ██████████ stated that in talking to the people in Venezuela, the people feel that the Venezuelan Government has deserved what is happening to it because the Venezuelan Government went too far in squeezing the oil companies. ██████████ also stated that in Venezuela the CP is extremely strong and its strength should not be underestimated. b7C

██████████ advised that in connection with the anti-Castro movement he ascertained from talking to many individuals in Cuba that the Cubans are daily becoming disenchanted with Fidel Castro. ██████████ said that Castro has lost the support of everyone with the exception of the peasants and they are with Castro only because of promises which he has made to them, but they are beginning to lose faith in him because he has failed to make good on his promises. ██████████ advised that he believes that the Cubans will support a leader who could unify the various small groups who are opposed to Fidel Castro both inside of Cuba and outside Cuba. ██████████ said that the business men in Cuba will go along with anyone whom they can respect and Castro on the other hand hopes that he can keep the opposition divided so that there would be no unification of strength which would be capable of overthrowing his government. b7C

██████████ stated that there is a very strong rumor in Havana that Fidel Castro realizes the dangerous position his government is in and that it is capable of being overthrown and in order to save face, strange as it may seem, Castro would be willing to talk to some high ranking United States official. ██████████ stated that if such a conference was held there could not be publicity regarding such a meeting and the meeting would have to take place in private. The individual from the United States would have to be an individual of equal rank with Castro because, understanding Castro, it must be realized that he is a very proud individual and a man who has a rather high opinion of himself and his abilities.
